Delivering Education

It was a design-bid-build world for decades in education and then things began to swing heavily towards design-build....Where is the pendulum now? It seems delivery methods vary depending on project complexity, owner preferences and project drivers. How are some of the major Education Systems in LA delivering their projects now and in the future? How is Lease-Leaseback changing the landscape? Are Design-Build competitions still viable?

Please join our distinguished panel as we discuss and debate project delivery, lessons learned, and how they expect to deliver their capital improvement programs going forward.
