

Southern California Development Forum Presents...

Tuesday, October 14, 2014, 7:00am-9:00am

Science & Technology!

Southern California, the land of sunshine, beaches, mountains ... and a global leading biomedical industry? Over 2,000 biomedical leaders, from the large international corporations and venture capital start-up's to our universities and medical centers, all call California home. These industry leaders are on the front lines of breakthrough scientific and technological research, resulting in cutting edge products, techniques and services. Our panel will share recent trends in the industry relative to design and construction needs and, importantly, what they envision going forward, from space allocation to strategic planning.
