

Southern California Development Forum Presents...

Tuesday, October 13, 2015 - 7:00am-9:00am

Science & Technology

Southern California, the land of sunshine, beaches, mountains, and a global leading Biomedical Industry? California has over 2,000 biomedical companies leading the industry in breakthrough scientific and technological services. Many of the leading companies have a base in Southern California, from the large international corporations and venture capital start-up's to our Universities and Medical Centers. Come and hear our panel of industry leaders as they provide insight into the arenas where these companies are growing, whether they are building or leasing, and the future of the design to accommodate their needs. Our panel will also share trends in the industry and how those trends affect everything from space allocation to strategic planning.
