The global pervasiveness of professional sports is here to stay. Sports has the power to unite diverse populations and be a strong economic driver for urban growth. With over 11 professional franchises in 6 major leagues, nowhere is there a greater impact and opportunity than Southern California. Even in this top market, strong women are leading the charge as athletes, business people, and innovators, shaping the growth of sports locally and inspire future generations to be follow in their footsteps.

Join us for SCDF's Annual Sports Event to hear from thought leaders on the state of the industry, how sport is changing in Los Angeles, future construction needs and anticipated projects necessary to meet those changes in the industry, and importantly, what has driven them to excellence in their field.
